Dear Army Corps of Engineers,
(via GLMRIS)

Please do what you can to create a workable solution to keeping invasive species, including all ASIAN CARP, out of the Great Lakes and their tributaries. Please do not wait. Barricade. And then come up with a new system for Chicago's storm water, and their shipping. Better systems may create more jobs.

We cannot un-do the problem once it is spread to the Great Lakes. (We still have lamprey...) It must be fixed while there's still a chance, within the Mississippi.

I write for myself, but also as chapter president of the Izaak Walton League conservation group.

Sincerely,

Georgia Donovan
