To whom it may concern:

I, John Alli have an opinion on how to stop the Asian carp from reaching the Great Lakes. I feel that stopping that stopping the Asian carp is necesary, but it could affect the shipping canals connecting the Great Lakes. I feel that spending taxpayers money to stop the Asian carp because if the Asian carp reach the Great Lakes it will take more money to remove the Asian carp. I also do not think closing the canals connecting the Great Lakes is a good idea because shipping would be stopped making it harder to transport goods.

In my opinion, the U.S. should react in more ways to the Asian carp.

Sincerely,

John Allie
