GLMRIS
111 N. Canal St.
Ste. 600
Chicago, IL,
60606

To whom it may concern;

I think the Asian Carp problem may become a huge problem. The Carp will keep reproducing and they don't have any predators that will eat them It would be a good idea to close the canal leading from the Great Lakes to the Missouri because it would stop the flow of the water.

In conclusion, I vote that the GLMRIS should block the canal in order to stop the flow of the carp If this flow of carp continues to move, the carp may over populate.

Sincerely,
Rachel Hall
