To whom it may concern:

Hello, I am writing to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers regarding my feelings about the Asian Carp Invasion of the Great Lakes.

I think that you should go on with your plan and try to stop the Asian Carp from killing out all the native species in the Great Lakes. I believe it would be a good use of the tax payers money, because it could really benfit everyone if we killed off the Asian Carp. The Asian Carp species have really endangered our ecosystem and made our food chain of balance. If they close the canal it would stop the Asian Carp from advancing into Lake Michigan, + if they do advance it will totally destroy the habitat of the Great Lakes, one of the most important freshwater resrvoirs.

In conclusion for the benfit of the whole ecosystem and people utilizing the lakes + rivers it is important to eradicate or at least contain the spread of the Asian Carp. I support you to close the canal + fight off the Asian Carp.

Sincerly,

Ruth
