To Whom it may concern: I feel that we should close the canal from the Mississippi to the great Lakes. That should stop the Asian Carp from getting any farther. Since the Asian carp have no predator in North America. They will over population and take over the Great Lakes and other rivers, forcing out the native fish and animals. We could use electric nets, or fishermen could go out. We have to stop the Asian Carp before they take over the Great Lakes.

Sincerly,

Kathryn. Johnson
