Dear Sir or Madam,

For nearly 20 years my family has visited Crystal Lake, Michigan, for summer vacations. In the past three years we have noticed the proliferation of zebra mussels in the lake's blue waters. Even the children know the mussels were not and are not part of the lake's original ecosystem. The mussels are dangerous, destructive, and a glaring example of how a body of water not directly connected to the Great Lakes can be ruined by an invasive species.

Make a plan to separate the Mississippi and the Great Lakes. Protect our waterways for the future generations.
