I am writing to express my opinion about the Asian Carp invasion.

The invasion of Asian carp is a very serious matter. Because these species are not indigenous to the United States, they have no predators and therefore can reproduce and overpopulate quickly. Research also states that Asian carp were born to consume. Silver and bighead carp pose a threat to the Great Lakes, and need to be disposed of quickly. Perhaps we should try and seal the barrier leading up to the Great Lakes. We must take action quickly to ensure these species remain where they are, instead of allowing them leeway into the Great Lakes. If there are any predators of the Asian carp, they should be found immediately.

Thank you for your time and consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

Maya Mathews
