Please do what ever is necessary to stop the Asian carp from entering the Great Lakes ecosystem. The amount of cash fisherman spend per year on gear, boats, gas, lodging in New York alone is astronomical. So please do the right thing and right away and block those canals immediately to stop this stupid fish from wrecking an entire ecosystem and economy. As fragile the economy is right now, sportsmen still spend their hard earned dollars on sportfishing. The shipping companies brought this upon us so why don't you hit them where it hurts, in their wallets, or make their insurance pay for the actions necessary to block the canals since they caused the problem. If you wait too long there won't be anything to stop the invasive predator from multiplying beyond belief.
