I think whatever measures necessary should be taken to eradicate these "aliens" from our waters. This elimination should be at the hands of governmental agencies as well as all sport fisherman.

Using whatever means it would take, shocking the water and picking out carp, fishing for and keeping the invasive specie or bow hunting.

Groups could organize tournaments and then give the fresh caught to local soup kitchens to help feed poor and homeless. Or have a local fish fry.

Whatever it takes; but stop the onslaught because surely their presence can only be detrimental to native species.
