I dont need to explain the importance, uniqueness, or history of our great lakes. I hope by now we all understand how vital this fresh water reserve is not just for ourselves abut other animal life as well. We have learned time and time again through history and our mistakes that an invasive species must be dealt with - eventually. We already have too many threats from other invasives and pollutants to the Great lakes, why not kept this species out while we have a fighting chance. Yes it will be expensive, but no where near the cost if we wait and allow this species to wipe out the vitality of the Great lakes.
