1. The language in the study MUST be changed from "reducing risk" of invasive species movement to "stopping" or "preventing". Any movement of invasive species, specifically ASIAN CARP into the Great Lakes system will have extremely deleterious economic and environmental impacts.
2. If the Chicago portion of the study is not completed until 2015, the study will take TOO LONG and it may be too late to stop the spread of certain invasive species. Appropriate resources should be allocated to complete the Chicago portion of the study in no more than 18 months.
