Do you really think a chain link fence will stop the Asian Carp from making it to the Great Lakes? And that it will take a flood event to make it happen? As an old timer told me years ago when I questioned why my hillside pond had so many fish in it that were never introduced..... Blue Herons.
They walk around all day in the shallow water and mud... Exactly where fish lay their eggs. Some fish eggs stick to the mud on the heron's feet as he flies off to the next fishing hole....
Are you going to kill all the wading birds?
