Since the government decided to allow asian carp rearing permits to fish farmers on the Mississippi, the government should fix the mess they created. The lack of foresight is deplorable! I have spent thousands of dollars on fishing gear used in the great lakes. I would not have spent a dime if the fishing was poor. Asian carp are going to ruin a real economic engine in an already depressed area. Contingency plans should involve Canada as well. The welland canal is another location where electro-shocking barriers should be placed.
