I am deeply concerned that the time frame currently suggested for the study of the Asian (Silver) Carp problem threatening the Great Lakes fisheries lacks the sense of urgency required to deal with this menacing situation. Five years to prepare a study before any action is taken most likely will be much too late. I urge you to expedite this process and act as soon as possible. Too much is at stake. We need action. Sound scientific studies will be the key to victory, but we must act as quickly as possible. Thank you
