I've spent much time on the St Lawrence River and I know that because of their interconnection any threat in the Great Lakes can soon become a threat in the St Lawrence.

Consider the rapid spread of zebra mussels and the damage they have caused... in the Great Lakes... the St Lawrence... and many other waterways.

I implore you to speed up your study of the Asian Carp threat... and come up with a way to "prevent"... not reduce... this risk to the health of the lakes and the river.

Sincerely,

Thomas Miller
