Any efforts towards eliminating the possibility of the invasive species into the Great Lakes System must be taken immediately. Efforts to reduce the introduction should not even be considered. That avenue is unacceptable, only elimination of their introduction will be acceptable. Also the 5 year timetable for the study is unacceptable. You must reduce the timetable for the study to a maximum of 18 months. This invasive species will have a significant negative impact on the sport fishery and recreational boating on the Great Lakes waterway system and any possibility of them entering that waterway system must be eliminated now.
